Language Arts

We are getting so close to the end of the alphabet. This week we learn about the letters X and x. We'll learn the different strokes that make up the letter Xx, and find things in the classroom that begin with (or maybe end with) the sound that Xx makes. My Xx Book reviews the words see and the. We'll have fun making xylophones as an art project and our cooking connection this week will be a cookie-craft xylophone. We'll also take a look at x-rays of bones on our light table! We'll even make simulated x-rays of the bones in our hands.

Social Studies

This week we'll delve into a new mode of transportation ... space travel! We'll have fun learning about how astronauts travel in space while playing in our imagination station's space shuttle!

Religion

Throughout Lent, we will be talking and learning about the time we, as Catholics, prepare for Easter. This week our book, My Lenten Journey, will focus on ways we can share with others.

Science

We'll be integrating Social Studies and Science this week as we learn about all that makes up our solar system ... including our sun, the stars, and all of the planets.

Math

We'll continue to practice counting from one to seven along with the concept of adding "one more".

Home-School Connection

Language Arts: Lucky Me! Four Leaf Clover. Fill in the four-leaf clover by drawing and/or writing about things that make you lucky. You can decorate your clover if you'd like.

Social Studies/Math: Where and when can you ask the question ... what if we added one more? Try it at dinner, snack or even when playing with toys.

Religion: Help your child share a picture-message with their prayer partner this week. Just drop it in the prayer-buddy basket outside the classroom.
